

No cash for scrap

As of 1 September 2016, we are no longer allowed to pay cash for scrap metal.

But we can still pay you!

Please discuss the range of alternative payment options with the weighbridge staff.

The Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015 makes it an offence for anyone to buy scrap metal for cash or by any other form of payment than a crossed cheque or electronic transfer of funds.

Alongside the cash ban, the Scottish Government has also made it a requirement for us to verify the identity of those selling the scrap metal.

Means of verification

To verify the identity (ID) of the seller, the metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer ('the dealer') must request either valid photographic ID, which also sets out the seller's full name and residential address, or a formal document, such as a utility bill, that bears the person's full name and residential address and valid photographic ID that includes the seller's date of birth as well as their full name and residential address*.

Acceptable photographic ID	Acceptable formal documents
a. United Kingdom passports.	a. Bank or building society statements.
b. Passports issued by an European Economic Area (EEA) state.	b. Credit or debit card statements.
c. Photocard driving licences (Great Britain or Northern Ireland).	c. Council tax bills/statements (linked to an address in England, Wales or Scotland). Rate bills/statements (linked to an address in Northern Ireland).
d. Biometric immigration documents.	d. Utility bills (excluding mobile telephone bills).

All documentation presented must have been issued within three months of the date the metal is acquired by the dealer or no more than three months before the date the metal is disposed of by sale or exchange by the dealer.

As the metal theft lead for Scotland, British Transport Police will continue to be committed to reducing metal related crime and ensuring compliance through the use of existing powers and by utilising and enforcing the new legislation relating specifically to Scrap Metal Dealers contained within the Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015. Those involved in the scrap metal industry can rest assured that any conventions will be dealt with appropriately and robustly. By adopting a multi-agency approach, our aim will be to continue to disrupt and detect individuals and organised groups who have used the scrap metal industry as a means of disposal for stolen metal. The introduction of cashless trading and improved record keeping will greatly assist in making the scrap metal industry less appealing to those who are involved in criminally.

Scottish Government Guidance for metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers: Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015.

INTRODUCTION

- The Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015 (the 2015 Act) received Royal Assent on 4 August 2015. The majority of the provisions relating to metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers come into force on 1 September 2016.
- This guidance is intended to assist metal dealers, itinerant metal dealers, licensing authorities and other enforcement agencies.
- It reflects the Scottish Government's interpretation of the legislation. However, the views expressed do not bind licensing authorities or the courts. It is ultimately a matter for the courts to take a final view on the interpretation of legislation.

LEGISLATIVE BACKGROUND

- Metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers have been regulated for many years under the Civic Government (Scotland) Act 1982 (the 1982 Act). The 2015 Act has amended the 1982 Act strengthening and modernising the existing regime. The aim of which is to raise standards within the industry, and make it more difficult for metal thieves to convert the proceeds of crime into cash.
- The 2015 Act provides new definitions for metal dealer and itinerant metal dealer, extending the scope of the regime. It tightens record keeping arrangements and requires proper identification of customers. It also increases penalties for licensing offences and creates a power that will enable the creation of a register of metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers.
- The relevant provisions in the 2015 Act are sections 66-73 and can be found at: <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/asp/2015/10/contents>
- The passage of the Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Bill through the Scottish Parliament and further documentation, including the Explanatory Notes and Policy memorandum and can be found at: <http://www.scottish.parliament.uk/parliamentarybusiness/Bills/76383.aspx>
- Further relevant secondary legislation for the metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers provisions are:
 - 'The Civic Government (Scotland) Act 1982 (Metal Dealers and Itinerant Metal Dealers) (Verification of Name and Address) Regulations 2016': <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/ssi/2016/73/made>
 - The Air Weapons and Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015 (Commencement No. 2, Transitional and Saving Provisions) Order 2016': <http://www.legislation.gov.uk/ssi/2016/85/made>
- The Commencement Order means that from 1 September 2016 all metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers will be required to comply with the new principal requirements of the licensing regime, namely:
 - exemption warrants are withdrawn from that date;
 - cash payments for scrap metal will be prohibited; and
 - new record keeping/customer identification requirements will be in force.

WHO NEEDS A LICENCE?

- The licensing regime requires that metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers require a licence. The 2015 Act amends the 1982 Act to provide new definitions of 'metal dealer' and 'itinerant metal dealer'. These are:

72. Interpretation of provisions relating to metal dealers, etc.

(1) Section 37 of the 1982 Act (interpretation of sections 28 to 36) is amended as follows.

(2) In subsection (1), for the definition of 'itinerant metal dealer', substitute 'itinerant metal dealer means a person who –

a) carries on a business that consists wholly or substantially of buying or selling for scrap –

i. metal articles that are old, broken, worn out or defaced, or

- partly manufactured articles that are made wholly or partly from metal,
- collects articles of the kind described in paragraph a, i and ii by means of visits from place to place, and
- disposes of such articles without causing them to be kept in a metal store or other premises (including by disposing or giving custody of the articles to a person who keeps a metal store)."
- For subsection (2) substitute – "(2) For the purposes of sections 28 to 36, a person carries on business as a metal dealer if the person –
- a) carries on a business which consists wholly or substantially of buying or selling for scrap –
- i. metal articles that are old, broken, worn out or defaced, or
- partly manufactured articles that are made wholly or partly from metal,
- carries on business as a motor salvage operator (so far as that does not fall within paragraph (a)).
- For the purposes of subsection (2)(b), a person carries on business as a motor salvage operator if the person carries on a business which consists wholly or substantially of –
- a) recovering salvageable parts from motor vehicles for re-use or sale and selling or disposing of the rest of the vehicle for scrap,
- b) buying significantly damaged motor vehicles and subsequently repairing and reselling them, or
- c) buying or selling motor vehicles which are to be the subject (whether immediately or upon a subsequent resale) of any of the activities mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b).
- It is for any individual to satisfy themselves over whether they do, or do not, fall within one of these definitions and should therefore seek a metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer licence. It will be dependent on the specific facts of an individual's business whether a licence will be necessary.
- If a business does not wholly or substantially consist of buying or selling scrap then a licence may not be required. Examples are given below:
 - It is unlikely that a plumber who acquires metal (e.g. copper piping offcuts, used heating tanks, electrical wiring) as an incidental part of a plumbing business would require a licence even if they sell those metals to a metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer.
 - A skip hire business or demolition contractor that acquires a significant amount of metal through the supplying of skips to a customer or by providing site clearance services may well need a licence.
- Any person who acquires or disposes of metal in the course of their business will need to think carefully about whether a licence is necessary. Such classes of persons might include demolition contractors and skip hirers amongst others.
- There are three obvious classes of people who will need to consider what to do under the new arrangements:
 - those who are currently licensed;
 - those who currently operate under exemption warrants; and
 - those who are now covered by the definition of metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer and will require a licence.
- Those who hold a current licence do not have to re-apply for a new licence ahead of 1 September 2016. However, these licence holders will, from 1 September 2016, be subject to the new set of conditions brought into the licensing regime i.e. the mandatory requirements provided in the 2015 Act such as not trading in cash.
- Those who are operating under exemption warrants will need to apply for a licence. The exemption warrant will cease to have effect from 1 September 2016.

Riaghaltas na h-Alba

The maximum penalty on summary conviction for operating without a licence without reasonable excuse, or for operating in breach of a condition of a licence is increased to a fine not exceeding £20,000 and/ or imprisonment of no longer than six months.

THE APPLICATION PROCESS

19. Metal dealers or itinerant metal dealers who require a licence have until 1 June 2016 to submit an application to their licensing authority if they want to ensure that they will not be committing the offence of unlicensed trading if the licensing authority has not determined the application for a licence by 1 September 2016.

20. The licensing authority for metal dealers will be their local council. Itinerant metal collectors can apply to any licensing authority for their itinerant metal dealer's licence.

21. It is limited to those who don't currently need a licence or are in possession of an exemption warrant under the existing licensing system. It would, however, be beneficial to submit an application as early as possible to ensure that licences are issued in good time ahead of 1 September 2016.

22. A licensing fee will be payable to the local licensing authority. The fee is set by the authority itself, having regard to the need to recover the costs of the licensing process. It is entirely a matter for the authority to set fees they consider appropriate.

DEALING WITH AN APPLICATION

23. Licensing authorities follow a well-established procedure for considering applications. The procedure is applicable to a large number of other civic licences such as street traders, public entertainment events, late night caterers and window cleaners, etc. and is laid out in the 1982 Act.

24. The authority will, on receipt of an application, send a copy to the Police to seek their comments, and if premises-based also to the relevant Fire Authority. They will also allow opportunity for members of the public to submit their views on application.

25. After having considered the representations the licensing authority will decide to either grant the application, refuse it or grant it subject to conditions. A granted application will have to comply with the mandatory requirements of the licensing regime such as not trading in cash.

26. The Police may have suggested conditions that they would like to see attached to licences, but it will be a matter for each licensing authority to decide whether they are appropriate for individual applications. Applicants will also have an opportunity to comment on such conditions before a final decision is made.

27. The licensing authority can at any time decide to vary or suspend a licence. A decision to suspend might follow a conviction for criminality involving the metal dealer or itinerant metal dealers business.

28. A decision not to grant a licence or to suspend a licence would be subject to appeal. An appeal would be to a Sheriff in the first instance and could be on the grounds that the authority erred in law, based their decision on an incorrect fact or was otherwise contrary to natural justice or unreasonable.

29. A licence may be granted for three years or a lesser period if the authority deems it appropriate.

ACCEPTABLE FORMS OF PAYMENT

30. The 2015 Act amends the 1982 Act to provide acceptable forms of payment that may be accepted by a metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer. The only acceptable ways in which payment can be made are bank transfer or cheque. Cash is not an acceptable method of payment.

31. A cheque should be non-transferable. An electronic transfer should be into a bank or building society account in the name of the payee. Cash 'substitutes' such as pre-payment cards are not acceptable. Similarly, foreign currency, postal orders, vouchers, gift cards or virtual currencies are unacceptable.

32. The 2015 Act further amends the 1982 Act to provide that a bank or building society account must be based in the United Kingdom and does not include friendly societies, credit unions or insurance companies.

33. An offence is committed by a metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer when a payment is made otherwise than that described above. The offence is also committed by any other individual who has day-to-day management of site and by any other person, acting on behalf of the metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer who makes payment. Offences are punishable by a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale.

RECORD KEEPING

34. The 2015 Act amends the 1982 Act to require a metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer to keep records of metal acquired and processed or disposed of. These new record keeping requirements include recording the details of the person the metal was acquired from or disposed of by sale or exchange and documents used to verify the name and address of that person. Records must be kept for three years.

35. The new record keeping requirements are:

 - retain information recorded or documents kept under this section for a period of not less than 3 years beginning with the date on which the information was recorded or document obtained.

ACCEPTABLE FORMS OF ID FOR PROVING A PERSON'S NAME AND ADDRESS

36. The Civic Government (Scotland) Act 1982 (Metal Dealers and Itinerant Metal Dealers) (Verification of Name and Address) Regulations 2016, set out the acceptable forms of identification for proving a person's name and address. These are:

Means of verification

(1) For the purposes of section 33C of the Civic Government (Scotland) Act 1982 the means by which a person's name and address may be verified is for the metal dealer or itinerant metal dealer ("the dealer") to refer to –

a) a document listed in paragraph (2) which bears the person's name, photograph and residential address; or

d) a rate bill or statement where the person's address is in Northern Ireland; and

e) a utility bill, but not a mobile telephone bill,

...provided that the date on which the document was issued is not more than three months before the date the metal is acquired by the dealer or not more than three months before the date the metal is disposed of by sale or exchange by the dealer.

OTHER ISSUES: REGISTER

- The 2015 Act further amends the 1982 Act to provide Scottish Ministers the power to establish a national register of metal dealers and itinerant metal dealers via secondary legislation. It may be specified by regulations who will keep the register, the form it will take, what information it will provide, what fees may be charged and what duties there may be to provide information to the keeper of the register.
- The Scottish Government is holding discussions about the establishment of a register but is not yet in a position to provide further details.

OTHER ISSUES: RETENTION OF METAL

- The requirements in the 1982 Act that insisted that metal dealers should retain metal for 48 hours before disposing of it are repealed.
