

Are you
under 40
and in the metal
recycling industry?

The Young British Metals Recyclers (YBMR) is open to any job role, be it on the yard, on the road, in the office, or in the lab.

YBMR gives members a platform to enhance their own development in the metals industry. Opportunities include building customer relationships and training. YBMR also offers plenty of social activities that enable members to build their professional network within the industry.

The YBMR:

- Encourages participation in BMRA and YBMR activities by industry colleagues under the age of 40.
- Identifies purposeful and educational activities that assist members of the YBMR in their own careers.
- Provides networking opportunities to build a network within membership and the wider metals recycling industry.

YBMR members have enjoyed a number of visits to different organisations within the metal sector giving insight into the wider industry. We also organise fun social opportunities, such as a day at the races!
